

The Betas Could

Blessed are the poor who use spirit printing, for theirs is the thing ROM of, heh, then affordable desktop publishing when the laser competition heats up.

Blessed are those who mourn for lost DATA, for they shall be comforted by UNDO.

Blessed are the PEEK, for the POKE shall inherit the dearth of data INPUT.

Blessed are those who ponder and curse after the righteousness of those computer manuals for they shall be mystified.

Blessed are the memory full for they shall be SAVED. Alas, except the RAM overflow which has been wiped out forever.

Blessed are the obscure in part, those commands, for they shall see G.O.D. (Gone Or Deleted).

Blessed are the piece-makers for they shall be called add-ons of G.O.D. (Great Or Defective).

Blessed are those who are aggravated for the sake of LOADING it right, for theirs is the thing ROM of haven where your disk drive head does not keep banging to overcome those distrustful program protection schemes.

Blessed are you when computer companies defile your wallet and, obsolete and orphan your system, and utter all kinds of illiteracy jargon against you aghast on my account, which is also your plastic still unpaid account. Make noise and don't be sad, for your new charge card is great to those who bought another mailing list, for so instituted the profits that go after your credit rating.